

COUNCIL FOR WORLD MISSION

MISSION SECRETARY - ECOLOGY AND ECONOMY

About this Role:

The Mission Secretary for Ecology and Economy reports to the Deputy General Secretary for Programme and is a member of the CWM Management Team. As part of CWM's renewed vision on "Life-Flourishing Creation and Economy", and its global strategic objective in moving towards developing life-flourishing communities, the successful incumbent is responsible to develop and implement programmes to equip and enable member churches towards ecological integrity and economy of life in doing God's mission in the world.

The position holder is to work in partnership with member churches, ecumenical partners, and people's movements in promoting life-flourishing economy and ecology while taking the responsibility for an assigned CWM Region.

Key Roles and Responsibilities

- Is responsible for the planning, implementation, budgeting, monitoring and evaluation of CWM's Ecology and Economy Programmes across member churches.
- To facilitate engagement among member churches in developing medium to long-term mission programmes to develop sustainable eco-conscious communities.
- To discern and identify emerging economic issues through CWM's New International Financial and Economic Architecture (NIFEA) and to develop appropriate action and responses.
- Work in collaboration with the member churches to advocate economic and ecological justice, raising awareness, and promoting solidarity with the people's movements.
- Assist the General Secretary in enabling the work of public witness for effective relations with wider ecumenical organizations and people's movements reflecting ecological and economic justice.
- Plan and organise ecumenical consultations; and where appropriate and in consultation with the General Secretary, member churches, ecumenical partners, and other ecumenical bodies, publish and release statement/ responses on economic and ecological issues.
- Enable CWM member churches and theological institutions towards Theological Education for Economy of Life (TEEL) and advocate life-flourishing economy and ecology.