

The 2017 Review and Amendment of the Public Finance Law

Key Points Review

It called a number of bodies, including the newly created Commission on the Public Finance Law, to study the bill and to submit a report to the Council of Ministers, which will then refer the bill to the Council of Ministers for approval.

The Commission will be asked to study the bill and to submit a report to the Council of Ministers, which will then refer the bill to the Council of Ministers for approval. The Commission will also be asked to study the bill and to submit a report to the Council of Ministers for approval.

Proposed amendments to the Public Finance Law

Proposed

to be approved by the Council of Ministers

Proposed amendment to the Public Finance Law

to be approved by the Council of Ministers

Proposed amendment to

to be approved by the Council of Ministers

The Commission will be asked to study the bill and to submit a report to the Council of Ministers for approval.

Proposed amendments to the Public Finance Law and the Public Finance Law

Proposed

to be approved by the Council of Ministers

to be

to be approved by the Council of Ministers

Proposed amendments to the Public Finance Law and the Public Finance Law

Proposed

to be approved by the Council of Ministers

to be

to be approved by the Council of Ministers

The Commission will be asked to study the bill and to submit a report to the Council of Ministers for approval.

The Commission will be asked to study the bill and to submit a report to the Council of Ministers for approval.

The Commission will be asked to study the bill and to submit a report to the Council of Ministers for approval.

The Commission will be asked to study the bill and to submit a report to the Council of Ministers for approval.

Proposed amendments to the Public Finance Law

Proposed

to be approved by the Council of Ministers

to be approved by the Council of Ministers